About Plan International Belgium

Plan International Belgium is an international girls' rights organisation. Across the globe, girls face more risks and fewer choices. In times of crisis and conflict, they are hit hardest. The international NGO stands with girls to fight for their rights and build an equal world where every girl is free – free from violence and oppression, free to go to school, and free to make their own choices.

A member of the worldwide Plan International federation, Plan International Belgium works alongside local partners to advance girls' rights and support girls as they lead change in their communities. The NGO runs programmes in Belgium and in partner countries across Latin America, Africa, and South-East Asia. It also provides humanitarian assistance in crisis situations.
